Haiti Claims Country Has Been Invaded

Border Crossed Monday, Asserts Minister At U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Haiti told the United Nations Friday an invasion force made up of Dominicans and Haitians crossed the border from the Dominican Republic last Monday and established itself in a mountain stronghold on Haitian territory.

Rene Chalmers, secretary of state for foreign affairs, charged that additional border crossings were planned as part of a campaign aimed at assassination of "the closest collaborators" of President Francois Duvalier.

TELEGRAM

Chalmers made the statement in a telegram to Ambassador Ahmed Taibi Benhimi of Morocco, president of the Security Council for July. Chalmers did not ask for a meeting of the council, but only that his communication be made available to all council members.

He said the invasion was financed and organized by the neighboring Dominican Republic and carried out by Dominican and Haitian elements that included Gen. Paul E. Magloire, former president and foe of Duvalier, who has been proclaimed Haiti's lifetime president.

Chalmers said the invaders crossed into Haiti at Lagon des Huîtres, a rural section of the Belle Anse commune in the Department of Du Sud-Ouest. He gave these additional details:

Immediately after the crossing, the invaders headed for the mountains, armed with automatic weapons, grenades, radio transmitter and receivers, and a large store of ammunition.

They forced farmers in the area to transport their equipment, engaged in depredations, and "put to death officers and men of the Haitian armed forces and members of the National Security Volunteer Corps."

For nearly a month, Chalmers added, the Haitian government was aware that two training camps had been established to prepare for the invasion.

It said one was under the direction of Louis Dejoie, aided by Father Jean Baptiste Georges, former Gen. Leon Cantave and Bernard Dierreich, described as an Australian charged with the job of preparing identity files of future invaders. The man in charge of the second camp was identified only as "Mr. Clermont."

Aims of the invaders were given as three-fold: dynamiting of bridges and gasoline tanks; carrying out acts of sabotage and arson throughout the country; assassination of collaborators of Duvalier.

Castro's Sister Served As Spy Before Fleeing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fidel Castro's sister Juanita voluntarily supplied the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency valuable information for four years before she fled to Mexico from Cuba last week, authoritative sources said Friday.

These authorities speculated that Castro and his brother, Raul, a trusted aide, let her seek asylum in Mexico because they were fed up with her opposition and figured it was the simplest way of dealing with a family squabble.

Juanita Castro Ruz left Cuba openly June 20 on a scheduled airline flight to Mexico City and denounced Castro's Communist regime as a puppet of "Russian imperialism." It was generally known in Havana that she opposed the regime and was critical of her brother.

Thus, it seemed she had to have either the help or consent of either Fidel or Raul Castro or both to leave Cuba freely.

U.S. sources said the CIA made contact with Miss Castro shortly after Fidel Castro took over power four years ago. She was described as cooperating voluntarily with CIA contacts because of her strong opposition to her brother's policy.

Another factor in her break with her brothers may have been that Miss Castro is known to be a religious person, according to persons here familiar with her.

During her long cooperation with the CIA, the sources said, Miss Castro provided data, which helped considerably in piecing together more complete information.

Segregation Slips, Holds Before Tests

Negroes Blocked At Atlanta Cafe; Little Violence

By The Associated Press

Segregation of public accommodations fell away silently in many Southern cities Friday, but a militant segregationist forced Negroes away from his Atlanta restaurant at the point of a gun.

"Get off my property!" screamed irate Lester Maddox, jerking out a pistol as three Negroes pulled onto his parking lot. He was backed up by an angry white crowd brandishing ax handles which Maddox keeps in a box at the front door of his restaurant.

KICKS CAR

Maddox kicked the Negroes' car with his foot and struck it with an ax handle. He vowed again that his place would stay segregated regardless of the civil rights law.

The Negroes left, saying they would return. No police were present.

Elsewhere, the calm with which some hold-out segregationists accepted the change almost matched the historic enactment of the sweeping legislation a century after Lincoln emancipated the slaves.

Even the Ku Klux Klan urged white persons in Mississippi coastal areas to let police handle any racial trouble. Leaflets distributed in the areas called on white persons "to stand back and to avoid conflict. These people (the Negroes) want Mississippi placed under martial law."

Negroes quietly obtained service in Birmingham, Ala., where segregation issues boiled to a new height last summer.

They gained admittance to formerly white theaters and were served in restaurants or at lunch counters for the first time in other places of stiff resistance before President Johnson signed the civil rights bill into law Thursday.

Negroes peacefully integrated places in Montgomery, Ala.; Petersburg, Va.; Albany, Va.; and Americus, Ga. near Tallahassee and Tampa, Fla., and Memphis, Tenn., racial barriers fell away in the first tests.

But not all the tests were successful. Negroes were refused service at two eating places in Selma, Ala., one Memphis restaurant and three places in Valdosta, Ga. But there was no trouble, no clashes or arrests.

The only arrest, in fact, was of an Atlanta television cameraman, Dave Riggs, jailed in Albany, Ga., for refusing to leave a restaurant where Negroes were served. Riggs said he was trying to film the group when arrested under Georgia's anti-trespass law.

In Mississippi, there were no immediate tests of public accommodations, but Negroes tried to test the voter-registration section of the new law.

Scattered Rain Forecast Today

The weather outlook for the Fourth of July offers only a little optimism for brighter weather. Afternoon and evening thundershowers are forecast for today and Sunday but the weatherman says they will be widely scattered.

Morning and afternoon showers fell on the Twin Cities Friday and FAA at Selma Field recorded .03 inch of rain for the day. The mercury stopped at a high of 82 degrees under cloudy skies that will continue through today. The low Friday was 69.

Today's high temperature is expected to be 88-92 with lows of 70-74. Winds will be variable, 5-15 miles per hour.

THE TWO WINNERS Friday night in the second of three days' competition at the Miss Louisiana Pageant here were Miss Cheryl Peterson, left, of Pineville, who won in the talent division, and Miss Cheryl Peterson, of Ringgold, swimsuit winner. Miss Martin, 19, who represents Rapides Parish, is a repeat winner, having won in Thursday night's swimsuit competition. The field of 33 beauties will be narrowed to 10 for tonight's finals. # Miss Martin Wins 2nd Division Title

By CAROL BRAXTON
World Staff Writer

The second win for Cheryl Martin, Miss Rapides Parish, in the talent division and the winning of the swimsuit division by Cheryl Peterson, Miss Holiday in Dixie, at the second round of judging at the Miss Louisiana Beauty Pageant at the New Orleans Auditorium Friday night set the stage for the climax of the four days of activity with the crowning of Miss Louisiana of 1964 tonight.

In the judging Thursday night, Miss Martin, 19, walked away with swimsuit honors, and Miss Union Parish, Judith Goss, captured the talent division with her interpretation of the school teacher, Anna, from the "King and I."

TWIRLING ROUTINE

The lithe Miss Rapides Parish Friday night did a tereoretic twirling routine. Dressed in a black velvet tereoretic costume, she flashed a red cape on a red-lighted stage.

She started off with one baton, then switched to double twirling to the accompaniment of bull-fight music and castanets. The brown-eyed, brown-haired beauty stands 5'7" and measures 35-22-35.

She is a slim 115 pounds and says she has to eat a lot to keep her weight up.

When her name was called as the talent winner she exclaimed, "I'm so very excited." She explained that she did not expect to win, but "I was hoping to do my best. I guess that's all any girl can do, isn't it?"

"I just can't believe it," was

WHITTAKER

Ex-Justice Scores Dangerous Cliches

HOUSTON (UPI) — The current civil rights controversy is full of dangerous clichés that are being given twisted meanings, a retired U.S. Supreme Court justice said Friday.

Charles E. Whittaker, Kansas City, who retired from the high court in 1962, spoke at a judicial luncheon of the Texas State Bar Association convention.

Whittaker said the new civil rights bill has public accommodations features similar to those in a civil rights bill declared unconstitutional in 1883. The earlier bill was stricken down because "it sought to establish a code of municipal law" and was not within constitutional power, he said.

"Those for (the new bill) seemed to contend that changing conditions justify a different interpretation of the Constitution and seem to hope that the (Supreme) Court would find its 1883 opinion to be an erroneous one," Whittaker said.

He said one dangerous cliché is, "all men are created equal."

"This does not mean they are entitled to permanent economic equality," he said.

"In this democracy of ours, the term 'equality' must mean that government, as distinguished from an individual, cannot and must not deny to any citizen the right to secure equal learning... equal treatment... equal justice... equal suffrage... and equal opportunity," Whittaker said.

"But democracy is not a leveller of men. Quite to the contrary, it was meant to permit the gifted to rise above the masses. If men really want permanent equality they can find it only in communism."

He said another example of arguments by cliché are: — "The world owes every man a living"—that is the cry of the lazy.

VIET NAM ACCUSED

Communists Air Infiltration Claim

TOKYO (AP) — The Communists accused South Viet Nam on Friday of trying to infiltrate North Viet Nam by sea and of parachuting 32 soldiers into southern Laos. They claimed both operations failed.

If true, South Viet Nam apparently was trying to create diversions in Communist North Viet Nam and to sabotage the southern Laotian supply routes for Red guerrillas fight in South Viet Nam.

A broadcast from Hanoi, the North Vietnamese capital, said South Vietnamese commandos landed from a naval craft June 30 on the coast of Quang Binh Province. This would mean they went ashore somewhere in the vicinity of the port of Dong Hoi, 40 miles north of the North Vietnamese-South Vietnamese border. The number of commandos was not given.

WIPED OUT

As heard in Tokyo, Radio Hanoi said the commandos landed "for sabotage activities, but were intercepted and wiped out by the local police and militia forces." It added that the coastal defenders captured arms, ammunition and rubber landing boats.

Radio Hanoi said a protest was lodged Thursday with the International Control Commission, set up to keep watch on the Geneva settlement in Indochina.

Radio Peking carried a charge that a South Vietnamese plane on June 27 airdropped 32 soldiers in the Muong Nong area of southern Laos near the border of South Viet Nam. This is the area where the pro-Communist Pathet Lao has been pushing back Laos' neutralist and rightist army forces in order to tighten its hold on the supply trails leading down from North Viet Nam to the guerrillas in South Viet Nam. Laos has charged that soldiers from North Viet Nam have aided the Pathet Lao in fighting in this sector.

Peking quoted a broadcast from Pathet Lao headquarters in northern Laos. It said two of the soldiers were killed, six captured, and the Pathet Lao is "encircling the routed enemy."

The nationality of the soldiers was not given.

IN ATOMIC RACE

U.S. Is Pushing To Solidify Lead

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is pushing to convert into permanent gains a big U.S. early lead in the new atomic race.

The competition of the 1960s is for leadership in atomic electric power. And, as in the first nuclear race — for weapons mastery — the stakes are tremendous.

U.S. authorities calculated today that by 1980, if half the new atomic power plants built abroad use American design, U.S. enriched uranium sales to them will total some $6 billion to $8 billion. The United States is the only big supplier of this type of nuclear fuel.

Furthermore, this dollar gain would be accompanied by the immeasurable political, prestige value to America in being the foremost provider of large electric power systems around the world.

The international contest is intensifying as word spreads that atomic science is crossing the threshold from small experimental, high-cost power plants

Brush Fire Threatening Small Town

NEWHALL, Calif. (UPI) — A mammoth brush fire feeding on turbulent afternoon winds and 100-degree temperatures surrounded the retirement community of Green Valley on three sides late Friday and many of the 1,000 residents voluntarily evacuated their homes.

The fire—which burned an estimated 10,000 acres of brush and valuable watershed by late afternoon—swept down gentle slopes within less than a half mile of Green Valley.

STAY BEHIND

Some residents stayed behind to fight to save their homes against a fire hazard they had prepared for by clearing yards of brush and grass.

There was no official demand for evacuation, and the U.S. Forest Service expressed cautious hope that more than 800 firemen could save most of the structures, from $50,000 homes to small retirement houses and summer cottages.

Flames burned around the community on the south, east and northeast. But there appeared no danger Green Valley would be cut off completely, according to U.S. Forest Service Information Officer Don Porter.

The two-day old blaze appeared near containment at mid-day on Friday. But heat, combined with near zero humidity and wind gusts up to 25 miles an hour sent flames roaring from one canyon to another as if down a funnel toward Green Valley.

Acres burned was estimated at more than 8,000, about 3,000 of which was razed in a 90 minute period Friday afternoon.

Older persons and children were advised to leave Green Valley, a community including some $40,000 homes as well as unpretentious frame houses, as a precaution.

into an era of large-scale nuclear power, cheaper in many places than the conventional hydroelectric rates.

The sales competition so far is mainly among the United States, Britain, France, Canada. The Soviets have yet to put any large atomic reactor into operation outside their own territory.

The main buying interest comes from the more industrialized areas of the free world. The backward areas have high conventional power costs, but atomic energy is the solution for them—they lack power lines, constant demand, and the money to install atomic power.

U.S. reactors are cheaper to build than the foreign varieties, and the prices offered by U.S. companies can go even lower, assuming sales are made on a large scale.

American reactors are designed to run on enriched, or refined, uranium fuel. The others generally employ natural uranium.

California Leads With 17 Fatalities

By United Press International

The holiday traffic death toll mounted slowly Friday as millions of Americans took to the roads on the first day of the Fourth of July weekend.

The National Safety Council said the toll was running below its pre-holiday estimates but warned that the death rate might speed up as a new influx of motorists hit the highways late Friday.

LATEST FIGURES

A United Press International count at 12:30 a.m. EDT showed 88 persons killed in traffic accidents since the start of the July 4th holiday at 6 p.m. local time Thursday.

The breakdown:
Traffic ..... 88
Drownings ..... 17
Miscellaneous ..... 12
Total ..... 117

California had 17 killed in traffic, Texas had 12 and Indiana and South Dakota counted 6 each.

The safety council had estimated that between 450 and 550 persons would die in traffic during the 78 hour holiday that ends at midnight Sunday.

The record for a three-day Independence Day weekend is 442 deaths in 1960. In a four-day weekend last July 4, a record 556 persons died on the highways.

Americans thronged to seaside, lake and mountain resorts for the long hot-weather holiday. So many campers arrived at East Harbor State Park on Lake Erie near Sandusky, Ohio, that many had to be turned away.

While hundreds of thousands of city residents headed for rural retreats, crowds of rural dwellers thronged the cities.

One of the most colorful Independence Day observances was scheduled in Milwaukee. There 34 creaking circus wagons from the circus world museum were to be viewed in the gala "day in old Milwaukee" parade.

The ringing of the Liberty Bell in Philadelphia will touch off the ringing of bells, chimes and carillons across the nation. The event commemorates the anniversary of American independence.

Summit Talks Among Soviets Are Predicted

LONDON (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and selected leaders from key Communist parties will meet secretly in Poland late this month for emergency summit talks on growing crisis within the Communist world, diplomatic sources reported Friday.

The sources said the restricted top-level talks were expected to be held around July 22 under cover of celebrations marking the 20th anniversary of Poland's liberation from Nazi occupation.

The source said the behind-the-scenes meeting was expected to review latest developments in two key issues disturbing the Communist camp: —The worsening ideological conflict between the Soviet Union and Communist China.

—Signs of growing dissension within Moscow's satellite empire in Eastern Europe.

Woman Is Given Marine Citation For Recruiting

Mrs. Linda M. Crawford of West Monroe was given a citation for services rendered to the Marine Corps by Colonel R. L. Stallings of Marine District Headquarters at New Orleans, who came to Monroe for the occasion.

Mrs. Crawford was praised by the director of the Eighth District Marine Corps for outstanding service given the United States Marines. The certificate read, "This assistant is in keeping with the finest tradition of American spirit."

The certificate is the first of its kind to be presented. Mrs. Crawford had helped recruit 15 boys for the corps in the past three years.

Sgt. Kenneth Davenport of Monroe recruited her son Jerry in July of 1961 and since that time she has helped him. She said the sergeant explained the Marine Corps to her and that, "I believe in the Marine Corps."

DEMONSTRATION

Negro Boy Causes Uproar In Kansas City Barbershop

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The Muehlebach Hotel, where President Harry S. Truman held many high-level meetings, has served Negroes for 15 years—but it wasn't prepared for the uproar caused by a Negro boy's request for a haircut.

The hotel, a fixture in downtown Kansas City since 1915, is headquarters for the Congress of Racial Equality during its current four-day national convention.

Eugene Young, a 13-year-old Negro from Jackson, Miss., is here with his parents. One minute after President Johnson signed the civil rights bill Thursday, he walked into the hotel barbershop and asked for a haircut.

He was turned down. The barbers said their appointment books were full. The room filled immediately with hand-clapping, singing demonstrators.

Then followed a conference between the national chairman of CORE, Floyd McKissick of Durham, N.C., and the hotel management. It lasted nearly all night.

Promptly at 8, when the shop opened Friday, the boy came down the stairs wearing a red polo shirt and dark pants.

"Does he have any money?" asked McKissick.

Eugene opened his hand to show that he did.

"I'd like to get a haircut," he said to Gus Imbeau, the head barber who turned him down Thursday.

Imbeau ushered him to the chair of Lloyd Soper and the issue was settled to everyone's satisfaction but Eugene's and the barber's.

"This is not the best haircut I ever got," said Eugene, who twice asked that it be cut shorter.

"I didn't mind cutting that little boy's hair. He can't help what color he is," Soper said.

"I sure didn't like what they did in here last night," referring to the demonstration.

Herbert Shue, comanager of the hotel, said "everything has been worked out all right. It was just a misunderstanding."

Four more Negroes showed up at the hotel barbershop Friday afternoon. None had appointments.

After about five minutes, one of them, was summoned to a chair for a haircut. He was Lamar McCoy, 23, Chicago.

Shue told the other three they would be served as soon as the other barbers were free.

The three waiting customers said they were Jim Norman, 26, and Earl Ross, 19, both of Chicago; and Abraham Worthy, 18, St. Louis.

"If they would make appointments we would serve them all," Shue said.

Virtually all of the shop's work is by appointment. It has little if any, walk-in trade.

The hotel, Shue said, catered to Negro basketball players attending the NCAA tournaments as early as 1950. The coffee shop was one of the signees to a list of restaurants that aren't segregated when the Kansas City Council adopted a public accommodations ordinance in 1958.

About one in four of the 600 delegates to the CORE convention is white. They come from all parts of the country.

Ex-Show Girl Gets Divorce From Crosby

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Ex-show girl Pat Sheehan divorced Dennis Crosby on Friday on testimony he was a bad father, habitual drinker and a neglectful husband.

She charged the 29-year-old son of singer Bing Crosby with cruelty.

Court Judge Allan T. Lynch said Dennis was seldom at home—even on holidays.

"He would leave our family home for long periods of time and wouldn't tell me where he was," she said.

When the court asked for further details, Mrs. Crosby reluctantly added: "He had a drinking problem. He was just not a good father. He was good when he was sober, but not when he was drunk. That's no way to bring up three children."

Mrs. Crosby said his behavior gave her insomnia and drove her to seek a doctor's care.

Crosby now is an associate producer with his father's production company. He and the statuesque blonde were married five years ago.

Mrs. Crosby has a 12-year-old son by a previous marriage and two children, aged 1 and 4, by Dennis.

An agreement stipulated that Mrs. Crosby will receive $800 monthly alimony for 10 years, plus $700 per month child support and free use of the couple's Beverly Hills home.

Speedy O. Long Hurls Charges On Stump Tour

FLORIAN (Special) — Speedy O. Long, candidate for U.S. representative from the Eighth Congressional District, charged Friday that the incumbent, Rep. Gillis Long, "wants to take credit for things that are popular, but does not want to take credit for those things that are not so popular."

"A man does not have to lie about his record — it's there," he said. "If he gets things done, then why wasn't he in Congress the day they voted to extend the so-called Civil Rights Commission?"

"Why didn't he vote for the farmers of the Eighth District, why didn't he help the veterans get their bill out of committee so they could receive a pension?"

The Jena attorney cited his legislative training, eight years experience in the state senate and his "working man" background as qualifications for the office of Congress.

"When a congressman is elected, he represents the views and wishes of the people who elected him, and that is what I will do as congressman," Long said.

Turning to the civil rights bill, Long asked, "How much more of this legislation will there be passed? How long will it be before they take away all our rights and liberties? How long will it be before we can no longer say we live in a free America?"

The former state senator charged the incumbent must bear part of the blame for the civil rights bill because of his vote to permanently enlarge the House Rules Committee.

SUPPORTED BILL

Georgian's Vote Makes Little Stir

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Support of the civil rights bill by a Deep South congressman, Rep. Charles L. Welfner of Atlanta, underscored the change in Dixie but brought little spontaneous reaction from his metropolitan district.

With desegregation already a fact in much of the district, a sampling of reaction showed uncertainty, skepticism and some surprise that Welfner voted for the bill.

Welfner, 36, reversed his stand Thursday after voting against the measure when it first came before the House.

A native Southerner and descendant of a Confederate general, the youthful Welfner—serving his first term in Congress—explained he had decided to "accept the verdict of the nation."

The bill, he said, returned from the Senate "with the overwhelming approval of both houses of Congress. Manifestly the issue is already decided and approval is assured."

Welfner said Atlanta leaders already were counseling obedience to the law.

"I shall cast my lot with the leadership of my community," he said. "I will add my voice to those who seek reasoned and conciliatory adjustment to a new reality. We must not remain forever bound to another lost cause."

Voicing surprise at Welfner's switch was Dr. C. Miles Smith, president of the Atlanta chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Smith recalled that last year Welfner refused to support the bill. He said the first vote, against the bill, came shortly before the Georgia Legislature reapportioned congressional seats, cutting most rural areas out of Welfner's district and leaving Negroes and liberals in a stronger position.

"I feel that this might have strongly influenced his decision," Smith said. "But I hope he voted out of conscience instead of political expediency."

A hotel manager, William Pfeffer of the Piedmont, agreed with Welfner's stand.

"I think he did the right thing," said Pfeffer, whose hotel was among other major hotels desegregating before the bill became law.

Alderman Rodney Cook, a Republican considering a race against Welfner this fall, said that the congressman "switched his vote not on principle but to aid his re-election."

Editor Eugene Patterson of the Atlanta Constitution, which has supported Welfner, wrote in a column that Welfner demonstrated courage.

Patterson said Welfner did not have to vote for the bill to retain the Negro vote which helped elect him.

The Atlanta Times, a new conservative newspaper published by the man Welfner unseated—James C. Davis—said in an editorial that it was tragic to watch elected representatives maneuver for position and personal or political gain.

Klan Leaflets Say Let Law Handle Strife

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — Residents in coastal areas found Ku Klux Klan leaflets Friday morning urging white citizens to let the law handle any racial conflicts which might arise during the July 4th weekend.

The leaflets, distributed by plane and automobile, were found in Gulfport, Biloxi, Pascagoula and Pass Christian.

Labeled "The Klan Ledger," the leaflets claimed they were "an official publication of the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan in Mississippi."

Gulfport Police Chief Leroy Hobbs said some of the leaflets were believed to have been dropped from a single-engine plane which flew over Gulfport.

Some Gulfport residents said an aircraft without running lights flew over the city.

Pass Christian Mayor Francis Hursey said several young white men in a car cruised city streets distributing the leaflets.

"The black savages have threatened that they intend to turn the Gulf Coast into the Congo Coast on the Fourth of July," the leaflet said.

"We are hereby advising all white persons who are not members of duly authorized police forces . . . to stand back and to avoid conflict . . . These people want Mississippi placed under martial law . . ."

"Remember that the blacks cannot accomplish anything unless they can cause a disturbance."

There have been no announcements by civil rights leaders in the state of turning "the Gulf Coast into the Congo Coast" on Saturday.

Muslim Leader Is Accused Of Fathering Four

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Elijah Muhammad, 57-year-old leader of the Black Muslim movement, Friday faced paternity suits from two former secretaries charging he fathered their four children.

The paternity suits were filed Thursday by woman trial lawyer Gladys Towles Root in behalf of Lucille Rosary and Evelyn Williams, who reside at the same address here. Both Negro women are in their 20s.

Lucille Rosary and Evelyn Williams claimed intimacies with Elijah Muhammad starting in 1957 and continuing until this year. The Rosary woman alleged he fathered her two children and she is expecting a third child by him, according to the complaint.

The other plaintiff said he was father of her daughter, Elijah Muhammad, who has resided in Phoenix, Ariz. for about 18 months, is the spiritual leader of the militant Black Muslim movement which seeks a separate community for men of his race.

Federal Pay Hikes

There have been times in the history of our government when one house of Congress afforded a check on the other. But as of this writing it appears congressmen will do little or nothing to stop the election year pay raise measure for members of Congress and other government workers.

Wednesday of this week, the Senate turned back three amendments to the $564 million federal pay raise bill. All of the changes were aimed at eliminating the proposed $7,500-a-year salary increases for members of Congress.

All three amendments were defeated by roll-call votes of 60-25, 64-21, and 53-32. The figures give every indication of the senators' own sentiments towards federal economy in this particular instance.

Some persons may wonder how such a far reaching bill, which includes pay hikes for federal judges, executives, and congressional staffs in addition to the senators and representatives, escaped public attention. It's the old story of the hand being quicker than the eye — if the eyes of the onlookers are fixed on another subject.

In this case, the big debate in the Senate over civil rights served to divert conservative attention. While people of such a mind were watching developments in the Senate, the House passed a pay raise measure that was as outrageous as the pay raise bill it defeated in March.

One effect of the bill will be to award members of the House and Senate a blanket $7,500 annual raise, effective next January. While this is less than the $10,000 per annum raise proposed last March, it still calls for a heavy raid on the U. S. Treasury.

In addition, a House-approved amendment was tacked onto the bill providing for automatic pay raises for federal judges and members of Congress whenever Congress approves a salary hike for the federal Civil Service.

If past records are any indication, here's what has happened over the past 18 months in that area of government employment.

In October, 1962, these employees received a salary increase with another coming in January, 1964. While the cost of living has increased approximately 7.5 per cent since 1957, federal pay raises for the same period have amounted to more than 27 per cent for all federal government Civil Service workers. Few employees in private industry can boast of so great an increase in salary during the past seven years.

As pointed out above, there were some economy-minded senators who wanted to amend the bill this week. They didn't have any luck, but they should be given credit for taking a stand.

Senator Winston L. Prouty of Vermont, a Republican, wanted to block the provision for the congressional raises for both House and Senate members.

Senator Prouty's amendment was offered as a substitute for an earlier one by Senator William Proxmire, Democrat from Wisconsin, who would have stricken pay raises for both members of Congress and their staffs. The Proxmire amendment was also defeated.

Senator Jack Miller, Iowa Republican, wanted to knock out pay raises for federal executives and judges as well as for members of Congress and their staffs. This change would have cut the cost of the measure about $21 million and Proxmire's about $9.6 million.

With no amendments — and that's the way it appears the measure was voted Thursday by the Senate—the bill will add some $535 million annually to the cost of federal government operations. This increase in payroll costs can hardly be justified in the face of higher deficits and debt ceilings.

This is an election year, and the number of workers on federal payrolls do account for a sizeable bloc of votes.

But so do the taxpayers at large. And when they go to the polls next November, we may hope that they remember those responsible for an untimely raid on the U. S. Treasury.

Double Taxation

With virtually every taxing unit from the smallest school district to the federal government demanding ever increasing tax totals, it would seem that the heads of government would welcome and encourage the growth of taxpaying enterprise.

But in the case of the federal government this does not seem to be the case. The political drive for government-owned tax-free projects has been promoted as good vote getting bait, on the theory that government can cut the cost of services furnished the public by taxpaying industries which help finance government cut rate competition.

The people are not told that they are paying twice for the so-called cheap service, first when they are taxed to provide it and second when they have to dig up the taxes the government loses when its tax-free competition destroys a tax-paying enterprise.

This is well illustrated by a recent article in the Salt Lake City, Utah, Tribune. It has to do with the Bonneville Power Administration extending its activities into Idaho and cutting its rates so as to take the power business away from a taxpaying company whose original power contract helped a chemical company establish elemental phosphorus production in southern Idaho following World War II.

According to published reports, tax-free Bonneville has been losing money on its cut rate policy. Instead of correcting this it takes business away from a heavily-taxed power company. The already overburdened taxpayer will have to pick up the tab for the taxes lost.

Let Well Enough Alone

As consumers, every person in the country should be alarmed by legislative proposals now before Congress which are aimed toward establishing the federal government as ruler of the free market and competitive retailing.

One such proposal, which has passed the Senate, is called the Design Protection Bill. But Congressman Willis, who is chairman of the House Sub-Committee considering the measure, has stated that it will not be reported on before the opposition has had an opportunity to be heard.

Women's clothes are an excellent example. At the beginning fantastically-priced "originals" are produced by the fashionable couturiers here and abroad. Then, later, the widely-publicized designs are copied, in whole or in part, and made available to the mass market at reasonable prices. This has always been the case and it has worked to the satisfaction of all concerned. The wealthy woman of fashion gets her expensive dress; the woman who can't afford a $500 original, later gets what she wants and finds attractive at a price she can pay.

The new bill would change all this. It would make possible a monopoly of design. Imports, according to retail authorities, would be eliminated or virtually so. And the effects of the bill would not be confined to such things as dresses. Its influence would be felt over an extremely broad spectrum of merchandise used by almost all of us.

Here, certainly, is a case where the government should let well enough alone.

Widening Crack!

ROBERT ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

Johnson Plans Conferences To Precede 'Rights' Advent

President Johnson is taking extensive soundings on the advisability of holding a national conference on the newly-enacted far-reaching civil rights measure.

Purpose of such a White House meeting would be to "prepare the ground for the smooth and understanding enforcement and operation of the history-making law by mustering the interest and support of state and local authorities, the church, business, labor, civic organizations and responsible volunteer efforts."

Being consulted on this dramatic plan are governors and mayors, clergymen, prominent business and labor leaders, educators, and representatives of a wide variety of organizations.

With a few exceptions, those approached have favored the President's proposal.

SOME HAVE advised a series of presidential conferences rather than one big general gathering; that is, separate meetings of state and local officials, clergymen, business and labor, educators, etc.

This suggestion has won support among lieutenants of the President on several grounds: Separate meetings of particular groups would facilitate the consideration of and possible action on specific problems; they would have more widespread publicity and impact.

The fact that this is a major election year is very much on the mind of these inner administration officials.

It is possible the President may disclose his thinking on this significant project in the carefully prepared statement he will make when he signs the unprecedented civil rights act.

HE HAS discussed that with congressional leaders, particularly Senate Democratic Whip Hubert Humphrey, Minn., floor leader for the legislation in the protracted struggle in the upper chamber. Humphrey strongly favors a conference to "bring about application of civil rights."

"The enactment of this epochal civil rights bill," Humphrey told the President, "is a great step forward, but many problems still beset us and remain to be solved. Foremost among them is how this new law is implemented on the state, local and federal level, and how it is backed up by community action and community support."

"These difficult and complex problems will not be solved merely by the signing of this bill into law. What is essential is to establish a framework of law in which we can earnestly and fairly undertake to work out the many legal and other questions that are certain to arise. The law is the law, but the way it is put into effect will determine its success or failure."

PRESIDENT JOHNSON is taking a significant step in seeking to forgo greater control over the Democratic National Committee — where Kennedy elements and influence still abound.

Moving into key places in the committee are James Rowe, one-time Roosevelt brain-truster, 1960 campaign manager for Senator Hubert Humphrey, and long a close adviser of Johnson, and Assistant Secretary of State Fred Dutton, who is giving up that job to devote full time to the President's campaign. An astute and forceful Californian, Dutton is particularly knowledgeable about Western politics and will concentrate on that area.

The high-powered and experienced team of Rowe and Dutton will give the President a hold over committee affairs he has not had up to now.

Present plans call for National Chairman John Bailey remaining, but as little more than a figurehead. That means no change for him as this was the rule in the Kennedy administration.

CLIFTON CARTER, Texas confidant of the President, will continue doing special jobs for him. But the organizing and managing of the fall campaign will largely be in the hands of Rowe and Dutton. They have both the President's confidence and know-how in national campaigns, and above all he knows they are loyal to him.

Maryland's top Democratic politician is still rowing although weeks have elapsed since the stormy May primary in which former U.S. Attorney Joseph Tydings Jr., with Kennedy backing, won the senatorial nomination over the bitter opposition of the regular party organization.

Tydings attempted to seize control of the state's delegation to the national convention — for the backstage purpose of boosting Attorney General Kennedy for vice president. In that aim, Tydings was forcefully slapped down by the regulars headed by Governor Millard Tawes. Tydings was given a place on the delegation, but that was all.

Shortly thereafter, the Kennedy Memorial Library exhibit, that is touring the country for fund-raising purposes, went on display in Baltimore. Tawes was on hand for the opening ceremonies. So was Senator "Ted" Kennedy, who had contributed to Tydings' campaign.

Tawes and young Kennedy went through the formality of shaking hands, but beyond that the latter drew the line.

When a news photographer asked Kennedy to pose with the Governor, he snapped, "I am not going to have my picture taken with you."

Pollsters' Data Shows Reversals

In the American scheme of political maneuverings tolerance has gone so far that we are even sympathetic to the trials and tribulations of those pollsters who predicted all about this year's round of Presidential primaries but whose batting averages were 0-for-3.

The pollsters are not of such tender sensibility. Having been wrong about almost everything, one pollster has returned to the fray by offering as "scientific" fact a "finding" that most of the nation's Republicans — in a ratio of something like 3.5-to-1 — are opposed to Senator Barry Goldwater. Just a year ago, another pollster was assuring the nation that Mr. Goldwater not only led all Republicans by percentages outdistancing the late and beloved Senator Robert A. Taft, but that he was strong with independents and strongest of all among college graduates.

THE STORY being circulated on Madison Avenue, where the pollsters make their real money by evaluating detergents and other products, is somewhat ludicrous. This year, the pollsters are saying nervously, the GOP has become so flighty and changeable that it switches from candidate to candidate with every gust of political wind. No proof of this is presented other than the polling errors of the pollsters — which creates something of a ludicrous circle.

It should not come as a surprise to many of us that the true state of affairs can be adduced without resort to tiny samplings, expensive computers, and the prejudice of those running the check. At no cost at all to the voter, he can find out whether or not Senator Goldwater is rejected by the Republican voter and, as the pollsters would have us believe, a creature of the county chairmen of the GOP.

Pollsters arrive at "results" by talking to as few as 500 people in a nationwide poll. The recent primaries reached close to five million Republicans. That's a pretty good cross-section of Republican sentiment — and one that George Gallup, Louis Harris, et al could never match in a decade of polling.

Do those millions of Republicans reflect the unease ascribed to them by the detergent-testers? Let's look at the figures.

IN THE 1964 primaries Senator Goldwater polled 2,147,993 votes — more, incidentally, than did John F. Kennedy in 1960 when he was able to pick up only 1,775,250 in the same number of primaries. In percentages, Senator Goldwater was the preference of 47.7 percent of his fellow Republicans.

As opposed to this, Nelson Rockefeller and an estimated $10 million in loose cash was able to pick up but 28 percent of the primary vote. Ambassador Lodge, better known among conservatives as Henry Sabotage, finds himself with 7.6 percent, and Governor William Scranton is running neck-and-neck with Senator Margaret Chase Smith to the count of 5.1 percent.

THE COUNTY chairmen, far from being fanatics who would rather lose with Barry than win with Nelse, are doing what politicians have always tried to do — move with the votes.

Yet the pollsters persist. They are, of course, convincing no one. But at this point they are safe. Whether or not they can convince the Republican convention to ditch Mr. Goldwater, there will be no proof of their inaccuracy. They were caught by time's chariot in the primaries. In the latest predictions, they are absolutely safe.

Careful and impartial surveys of territory presumed plowed by the pollsters shows that Mr. Goldwater's grassroots strength persists and grows. But where-ever he stands, the pollsters are hardly the ones to tell us. Elections are still decided by people — not computers.

Party In Power Claims Credit

Under the rules of the game, the Democrats—as the party in power—are entitled to credit in their claim to credit for the country's prosperity, just as they would be expected to endure the blame if the economy were headed the other way.

Thus President Johnson may be pardoned for the enthusiasm that led him the other day to tell a Minnesota audience that this year's historic tax cut "will return more than $100 million to the people of Minnesota."

The President was reciting the many blessings the Democratic Administration has wrought, the tax cut among them, before a highly partisan crowd of fellow Democrats, who signified by their applause that they thought this was great.

Those who chose to think about it, though, realized that while the tax reduction undoubtedly is figuring in current economic expansion—just as the Administration's advisers forecast it would—benefits to the individual taxpayer came about in a different way than suggested by the President.

FOR THE federal government, as a result of the tax cut, is not—of course—giving any money back to anybody. Because the tax rate has been reduced the money involved isn't being collected by the government in the first place and therefore Uncle Sam doesn't have to give back. It is remaining in the taxpayers' pockets for the taxpayers, and not the government, to decide how it should be spent.

This may be a minor distinction in terminology, because in any event the money that isn't being taxed is going into the economic life stream and helping to keep it healthy. But the difference in viewpoint could be symptomatic of a much bigger issue—whether it is the government that should do so much of the giving, with most things flowing from Washington, or whether all power derives from the people, as the textbooks say, so that it is from them that all giving springs.

Conservatives, especially those whose spokesmen is Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, nourish a dread of big government and the tendency of Washington in the second quarter of the 20th Century, to assume a Big Brother role. Johnson, on the other hand, has made it clear in his recent utterances that he believes big government is here to stay, that only in big government can the people of the United States meet the changes, challenges and dangers of the modern world's ferment. In domestic affairs, this will be a basic controversy in the upcoming Presidential campaign, especially so if Goldwater is the GOP nominee and to a lesser degree if a more moderate Republican prevails.

NEVERTHELESS, the Johnson vision of big government will be a difficult one to combat, whoever the opposition nominee might prove to be. He sees the government as "a creative partnership between business and labor, between farm areas and urban centers, between consumers and producers" — i.e., between just about everybody and their opposite numbers. It is a dream of all for one and one for all, of unparalleled national unity in which everyone realizes that any federal spending program that aids one group eventually benefits all. It is, in Johnson's words, "what I mean when I choose to be a President of the people." Since all of this is going to be accomplished by a Democratic regime, it would appear there isn't really much point in the Republicans keeping up the charade that anything they do matters to anyone.

Yet prosperity has its pitfalls, and Johnson recognizes this especially in light of the experience of his predecessor in the White House, President Kennedy. How much money the government lets folks keep after the tax collector calls isn't too important when people are as well fixed as most Americans are today. Kennedy sought to expand the government's social responsibilities and ran up against a virtual stonewall in Congress—for the reason that there was no great demand from the public for his programs.

JOHNSON HAS done better because of his greater skill in dealing with Capitol Hill. But the still unsolved problems of unemployment, the degradation and human waste of poverty, the neglect of the sick and aged, the spoilation of the national environment, the indignities of racial inequality—lack the urgency and the unifying drama of some great national calamity such as war, famine or depression. Under the latter circumstances the need for action is obvious.

How To Keep Well

By THEODORE VAN DILLION

HERPES GLADIATORUM

Almost everyone has had cold sores (herpes simplex) at least once. The primary blister often occurs when the causative virus is implanted in abraded or lacerated skin. A history of contact is difficult to obtain because the infection is so commonplace.

Dr. Ben Selling and Dr. Sidney Kibrick recently reported an unusual outbreak of herpes simplex among five members of a small group of 30 amateur wrestlers who worked out several evenings a week.

The first victim was a 31-year-old mathematician who entered the hospital because of chills, fever, sore throat, headache, and enlarged tender glands in the left armpit. Typical herpetic lesions were noted on the left forearm just above the wrist and new ones soon appeared on the upper back. Fever subsided within 24 hours and, by the end of two weeks, the man felt well enough to return to work. Meanwhile laboratory tests of the fluid in the blisters were negative for rickettsialpox, the disease originally suspected.

About the same time, another wrestler developed identical symptoms and a tentative diagnosis of rickettsialpox was made. It was not until the third wrestler was admitted to the hospital that herpes simplex was suspected. The causative virus was isolated by laboratory technicians.

Blood tests were then done on the first two wrestlers and it was obvious that they had the same condition. The remaining two cases also had vesicles on the skin that proved to be herpes simplex. Lesions occurred in a sixth member of the group but his were of the recurrent type of herpes.

The Boston physicians called the infection herpes gladiatorum. The initial attack of herpes simplex is followed by the formation of neutralizing antibodies in the blood. This defense usually is maintained unless overcome by sufficient stress. This leads to recurrences of blisters on the lips, mouth, genitalia, or eyes. The precipitating stress factors include colds, fever, sunlight, menstruation, and allergy to certain foods.

Topless Suits Legal In D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — City prosecutors have decided the topless bathing suit is legal in the District of Columbia.

"Women who wear them might be immodest but we don't have the kind of laws here that can stop them," Clark King, assistant corporation counsel, reported.

There is a law, he noted, against "inciting a riot."

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Rev. William R. Pettigrew, minister of Walnut Street Baptist Church, wondered what caused the congregation to titter during a recent baptism ceremony.

While he was baptizing one little girl, her 8-year-old brother was at the other end of the pool taking three or four very solemn practice dives.

West Germany, French Leaders Agree On Goal

BONN, Germany (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle of France and Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany agreed Friday night that European unity must be the ultimate goal of their policies. Both statesmen made it plain, however, they are not expected any speedy solutions.

Speaking at a formal dinner that closed an all-day round of conferences, De Gaulle told his German hosts the aim should be a Europe that "rests in itself from the aspect of security, of economics, of culture, and, of course, of politics."

"We will not reach this goal overnight," he added, "but there is no doubt that we are on the road which leads there."

De Gaulle, who came here with Premier Georges Pompidou and most of his Cabinet ministers for two days of talks, said there might be no outstanding results emerging from the meeting.

But, he said, there was no doubt that "we have made progress in our minds, in our hearts—also before the peoples watching us and whom we know have a firm desire to have this complete union achieved, which also should result in the union of the other neighbors."

Erhard told De Gaulle that the Germans were France's "best allies" in efforts toward achieving European unity. He warned, however, that "historical processes take their time," and that despite all urgency patience was needed, too.

Emerson Takes Men's Singles At Wimbledon

Seventh Time In Nine Years For Australia

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Roy Emerson, 28-year-old Australian tennis rebel, won the Wimbledon men's title Friday on his 10th attempt with a 6-4, 12-10, 4-6, 6-3 victory over Fred Stolle, another defiant Australian.

It was the second all-Australian final in three years here and the seventh time in nine years an Australian has won the most coveted title in tennis. It also was one of the longest finals since the war, an example of the modern serve and slam game at its best—or worst.

Emerson and Stolle are tabbed as rebels because they broke a rule of the Australian tennis officials banning them from overseas play before this past March. They were dropped from consideration for the Aussie Davis Cup team, though there have been strong hints lately that they will be reinstated.

Australia is favored to take the women's singles title, too, when Margaret Smith, the defending champion, plays two-time Wimbledon winner Maria Bueno of Brazil in the final today. For only the second time since the war, no American made either of the singles finals this year.

Stolle, a tall and rangy 23, jumped into the limelight last year when he lost in the final to Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex. He turned the tables by beating McKinley in this year's semifinals. The little Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., also went out in the semifinals, losing to Miss Smith.

Miss Moffitt and Karen Hantze Susman, a former Wimbledon singles champion, assured the United States of representation on the final day when they beat Miss Bueno and Robyn Ebbern of Australia 4-6, 6-2, 6-3 in the women's doubles semifinals.

The Americans will meet the top-seeded Australian team of Miss Smith and Lesley Turner, who beat Ann Haydon Jones of Britain and Ren Schuurman Haygarth of South Africa 6-3, 6-2.

Emerson, the top seed for the past two years, first came to Wimbledon as a youngster in 1954. He has missed only one year since then but he never before got past the semifinals.

Not once in its rain-interrupted two hours and 20 minutes did Friday's match reach the heights. Both men relied on a big service followed by a dash to the net and a volley for their winners. Only seven times was service broken in the 51-game match. Emerson won mainly because his anticipation was faster and his volleying better than Stolle's.

With both men playing the big service game, Emerson took the first set by breaking Stolle's service in the ninth game. The second set followed the same pattern until Stolle, whose volleying weakened under pressure, dropped service in the seventh game.

Then the match came alive. Stolle broke back with two superb passing shots, held his service for a 5-4 lead and reached that point by punching home two volleys. But Emerson raised his game enough to draw even at 5-5 and 6-6. Then three brief showers in quick succession interrupted play, each time just as Stolle was about to serve.

Boston Steals Olympic Show

By BOB GREEN
NEW YORK (AP) — Lanky Ralph Boston, boosted by a trailing wind, twice surpassed the listed world record with broad jumps of 27-4 and 27-5 1/2 Friday at the opening session of the U.S. Olympic Track and Field Trials.

The fantastic leaps, however, will not be submitted for recognition because of the wind. International rules require that the wind gauge cannot register more than two meters for a performance to be eligible for recognition.

At the time Boston jumped 27-4, the gauge read 2.6 meters, or 5.8 miles per hour. It was 6.8, or 15.2 m.p.h., for his final jump at 27-5 1/2, more than two inches further than the world record 27-3 1/4 held by Russia's Igor Terovanyan.

The wind, 2.9 meters by this time, also helped Trenton Jackson of the University of Illinois to a 10.1 victory in the 100-meter dash.

Gerry Ashworth of the Southern California Striders was second in the same time, which equals the American record and is just one-tenth of a second off the world mark. It will not be submitted for recognition because of the wind.

The biggest surprise in the first of two days of competition held in energy-sapping heat that soared into the mid-90s was the upset victory of Jay Luck in the 400-meter hurdles.

Luck, a Yale graduate now running for the New Haven Track Club, beat a brilliant field including Bill Hardin, Rex Cawley and Chris Stauffer in 49 seconds, just two-tenths of a second off the world record.

Hardin's father won the race on the same track in the 1936 trials.

Other final winners included veteran Hal Connolly with a 225-4 hammer throw; Jim Stevenson, with 242-8 in the javelin; John Thomas, 7-1 in the high jump; world record holder Dallas Long with a 64-9 1/2 shot put; and Bob Schul in 14:10.8 in the thrilling 5,000-meter battle.

There were two major disappointments for the crowd of about 13,000 at the Randall's Island Stadium—the absence of Bob Hayes in the 100-meter dash and the slow pace of the 1,500-meter trials that trimmed the field for Saturday's final.

Hayes, the only man ever to run 100 yards in 9.1, was injured in winning last week's AAU national championships. He did not show up. U.S. track and field chairman George Eastman said nothing has been heard from Hayes, this country's best bet to regain lost Olympic sprint supremacy.

NEW YORK Summaries of U.S. Olympic track and field trials Friday. Hammer throw, final—1. Harold Connolly, Colver City, Calif., 225 feet, 11 inches (meet record old record 216.7). Georgetown, 15:30.8. Jim Beatty, North Carolina T.C., Ken Moore, Oregon T.C., Al Hall, New York, 208.9. 3. Ed Burke, Santa Clara Youth Village, 208-4. 4. Bill McWilliams, Boston, 199-11. 5. Alex Schulten, Bowdoin, 196-7. 6. Bill Corsetti, Northeastern, 193-8.

Warren Spahn Says Nothing Is Wrong With Arm

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Milwaukee Braves pitcher Warren Spahn, who at the age of 43 has only three complete games in 17 starting assignments this season, denied Friday that any physical problem is hampering his effectiveness.

"There's nothing wrong with me physically. Other than that I don't want to make any statement," the great left-hander said when asked about his current troubles on the mound.

Spahn, who has won 20 or more games in 13 seasons, failed to finish a game for the ninth straight time Thursday when he couldn't get past the seventh inning against the St. Louis Cardinals. The Cards won 4-3, making Spahn's record 5-8.

Since Spahn ordinarily has been able to calculate a 20-game season at the rate of four victories a month for May, June, July, August and September, he should at this state have no fewer than eight victories.

However, he had won only six games at this time in 1960 and finished with a 21-10 record. His lowest total of triumphs since the Braves came to Milwaukee in 1953 was 17 in 1955.

CHI CHI RODRIGUEZ

Clown Prince Snaps Tie In Whitemarsh Tourney

WHITEMARSH, Pa. (AP) — Jaun (Chi Chi) Rodriguez, the clown prince of golf, snapped a four way tie for the lead in the $125,000 Whitemarsh Open Golf Tournament Friday with a four-under-par 68 for a 36-hole total of 134.

His left thumb still wrapped in tape and the whole hand numbed by an injection of cortisone to deaden the pain of torn tendons and ligaments, Rodriguez scored four birdies and a pair of eagles in a 33-35 — 68 second round.

The Puerto Rican was one stroke ahead of Dave Marr, 30-year-old Texan playing out of New Rochelle, N.Y. Marr added a 68 to his first round 67 for a total of 135 over the 5,607-yard, sunbaked Whitemarsh Valley Country Club course.

As the 29-year-old Rodriguez continued his blazing sub-par golf, the three rivals tied with him at 66 for the first round lead fell by the wayside Friday.

Champagne Tony Lema, winner of three of the last four PGA tourneys, scrambled to a par 72 and a total of 138; 40-year-old Al Balding slipped to a 73 and 139, while Tom Shaw, the former University of Oregon athlete, lost his birdie touch and wound up with a par 72 for a 138.

Two strokes off the pace at 136 were Terry Dill, Don Fairfield, Dan Sikes and Pete Brown. Sikes shot the day's best round, a six-under-par 66. The others fired 67s.

Still a threat as defending champion Arnold Palmer, the Latrobe, Pa. belter who still drew the biggest gallery. But Arnie's Army was a little shook as their hero putted poorly and wound up with a 68-70-138, four strokes behind the leader.

PGA champion Jack Nicklaus also had a 70 and 36 hole total of 139. The husky Columbus native was in the trees and rough, and felt fortunate to score as well as he did.

U.S. Open champion Ken Venturi birdied the 18th hole for a 69 and two-round total of 140. Tommy Jacobs and Howie Johnson were close up with 137 totals.

Rodriguez hurt his hand several weeks ago in Las Vegas. He said his fine performance here was due to "gambling golf."

"I never play for pars," he explained. "I'm gambling for birdies and eagles."

Jim Hegan, bullpen coach with the New York Yankees, played his first organized ball as a catcher-outfielder, with Springfield, Ohio in 1938.

Gala Parties Conclude Lambda Sigma Chi Rush

Lambda Sigma Chi's "Holiday in Hollywood" rush season came to a climax last Sunday, June 28 at the home of Mrs. DeWitt Milam, when members and rush-ees were gathered for a mother-daughter tea which carried out the theme, "Tea House of the August Moon." Earlier events included group attendance at Mass Sunday morning at Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church, a pallet party Friday evening and an informal get-together on Thursday.

White urns filled with bamboo flanked the front steps of the Milam home surrounded by trees hung with wisteria and Japanese lanterns. A black pagoda completely covered the surface of the double doors at the entrance.

Greeting guests were Mrs. Milam, Mrs. Fred Beckett, Miss Mary Eve Beckett, who wore a Japanese kimono and Miss Alice Pankey, Lambda president. Miss Pankey gave out favors of silver demitasse spoons engraved with the Greek letters of the sorority, which were placed on an oval silver tray.

Noted beyond the receiving line was a display of the many plaques and awards given to Lambda for various services.

Japanese figurines, black palm sprays, an arrangement of green and black magnolias, a Buddha and an original gold Japanese lamp formed the decorations for the den, where the guest book was presided over, alternately by Miss Toni Albright, Miss Carole Overton and Miss Donna Porter.

Brass and Copper appointments were used in the family room. A Japanese foot tub held the punch on the glass top table where tiger lilies and figurines made up the centerpiece. The main point of the room was an arrangement of glossy black magnolia leaves with green pennants depicting the activities of Lambda Sigma Chi.

In the formal dining room silver services were used to serve the coffee and the punch. A white usubata filled with Oriental foliage and birds composed the center of interest in the room. Both serving tables were filled with party foods including small cakes bearing the Greek letters of Lambda Sigma Chi.

The four rooms used for the tea were arrayed with authentic momentos brought back from Japan, such as a harikari sword, slippers, beads, fans and original Japanese prints and flags.

PALLET PARTY

"The Pajama Game" was the logical choice of theme for Lambda's pallet party at the Knights of Columbus Hall Friday night. The party followed a dance from 8 to 12, for which music was provided by The Abstracts.

After midnight, when dates left, Lambda rushees were presented with favors of yellow night caps with white tassels made by members especially for the occasion. Entertainment was provided by a group of members and rushees, and the Lambda scrapbook was on display for all to see. Breakfast was also served.

INTERMISSION

The home of Miss Merrie Jo Simonton on Deborah Drive was the setting for Thursday's informal "Intermission Time." The back yard was decorated with large cardboard figures as seen in the lobby of a movie theatre.

Popcorn, sandwiches and soft drinks were served and Alice Pankey, president, welcomed the guests and provided them with plastic soft drink bottles as favors.

THE SYMBOL OF INDEPENDENCE which marks this Fourth of July celebration is a family tradition at the Paul Betts home on Francis Place. Shown preparing for the festive day, by raising the United States flag are, from left, Bruce and Steve, 15 year old twins, Amanda 8, Paula 13 and Mr. and Mrs. Betts.

Mrs. Judy Traylor presided at the guest book which was placed on a table draped with yellow net over a yellow cloth and graced with a memory candle surrounded by puffs of tulle and lilies-of-the-valley.

An arrangement of yellow roses and candytuft flanked by single burning tapers graced one end of the refreshment table with the punch bowl placed on the opposite end.

Mrs. D. M. Frantom Jr., Mrs. E. B. Frantom, and Mrs. E. D. Morrison alternated at the punch bowl and Misses Teresa Frantom, Mary Sue Frantom, Sandy Frantom, and Dianne Futch served as tea girls.

Approximately 150 guests called during the appointed hours.

Dianne Baker Becomes Bride Of Mr. McGuire

The Douglas Methodist Church near Choudrant was the scene on Saturday, June 20 of the marriage of Miss Dianne Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Davis M. Baker of Choudrant, and Samuel D. McGuire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl McGuire of Simsboro. The Rev. Richard Meek of Choudrant officiated at the double ring ceremony assisted by the Rev. Paul Cassels of Simsboro.

The couple exchanged their vows at 8 p.m. before an altar centered with an arrangement of white gladioli, asters and woodwardia fern. Forming the background was an arch of white tapers held aloft in wrought iron candelabra. Candle trees draped with garlands of southern smilax flanked the altar and completed the setting. The family pews were marked with hurricane lamps decorated with greenery.

Mrs. Jap Gullatt of Haughton, sister of the groom, provided traditional nuptial music for the ceremony and accompanied the soloist, Randolph Posey of Arcadia.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white silk organza over satin, the fitted bodice featuring a portrait neckline edged with lace medallions which extended over the short sleeves. The skirt was fashioned with floating side panels outlined with a band of lace medallions that extended the full length of the skirt and terminated in a chapel train. Her shoulder length veil of silk illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls, and she carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations centered with pink sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Mary Roselyn Baker of Choudrant, sister-in-law of the bride served as matron-of-honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Hamilton of Dubach and Mrs. Judy Holstead of Choudrant. They wore identical gowns of candle pink embroidered cotton, designed with scoop necklines, brief sleeves and wrapped bell skirts. Circlets of pink net formed their head pieces and each carried a crescent bouquet of pink carnations.

Junior bridesmaids were Martha Leachman of Ruston, and Niki Williams of Monroe, cousin of the bride. Their dresses, of pink were fashioned as the bridesmaids except for full skirts with flat bows of self material at the waist and hemline. They wore pink net head pieces

Golden Wedding Observed Here By Gremillions

Mr. and Mrs. Saul F. Gremillion celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last Monday, July 29 surrounded by members of their family, the good wishes of friends who called throughout the day, gifts, flowers, and telephone calls from those who could not be present.

Their day started with a 6:30 a.m. Mass at St. Matthews Catholic Church, offered in their honor by the Rt. Rev. Monsignor John C. Marsh. They also received a special blessing as they renewed their marriage vows.

In Monroe to help celebrate the occasion were their daughter Mrs. Jerome T. Kane of Baltimore, Maryland and grandchildren, Susan, Sharon and Karen, and their son, Major James D. Gremillion, from his station at Letterkenny Army Depot, Chambersburg, Pennsylvania. Mr. Gremillion's brother, Sterling P. Gremillion of Alexandria was also here for the day.

Among the many greetings received were those from their daughter, Genevieve Gremillion from Paris, France and their son, Levy, in Hollywood, California.

Mr. and Mrs. Gremillion moved to Monroe in 1927 from Alexandria.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Tea Provides Beige Tint To Nylon, Cotton

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Heloise:

Last summer I bought a white organza hat with a large, floppy brim and every time I wanted to wear it, I had to press the brim because it would turn up in all the wrong places after laying in my hat box.

I found that by setting it on the shade of one of the dresser lamps it kept the right shape. Now, I keep it on an old lamp shade, loosely covered with a large plastic bag, on the shelf in my closet. This keeps the hat clean and the brim in proper shape.

Mrs. Theodore Phoenix

Dear Heloise:

I needed beige gloves and found I didn't have any beige dye so I thought, "Why not tea?"

I boiled water and put one tea bag in it. Then I poured the tea (without the tea bag) into a bowl and put my white gloves into the bowl. When I had the desired shade, I rinsed the gloves a couple of times in cold water, using a few drops of vinegar in the last rinse to set the color.

The longer you leave them in the tea, the darker they get. You can dye either nylon or cotton.

Mrs. Kay Leach

Dear Heloise:

After grinding meat, cheese, etc. in my food grinder, I put a piece of dry bread through the chopper.

This cleans out the remaining particles of food and if a few crumbs of the bread get into the food it will not hurt the taste. However, most of the bread remains in the grinder.

Dear Heloise:

After seething for years because gardening gloves always seemed too short at the wrists, I finally found a solution.

I bought a pair of the knitted cuffs (the type they put on jackets) and sewed them on the tops of the gloves with a zig-zag stitch and they work like a charm... no sawdust or dirt getting inside so that one must stop and take off the gloves and shake out.

You probably could use the tops of old cotton socks just as well.

F. Y.

You can. One woman wrote that she sewed the legs of knee socks to her gloves so that it kept her arms from getting blistered, scratched and freckled.

And both of you are darlings to pass your hints along.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When you take out your recipe book to prepare something, tear a piece of clear plastic wrap just the right size of the open book.

Place the wrap over the pages and no more spills and splashes on the pages.

Mrs. J. R. Anderson

DEAR ABBY

Three Minutes Not Enough Time To Phone

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Even though this is the truth, you haven't the courage to print it because it might reflect badly on your own American-husband-dominated society. But let's face it. On the subject of sex, you American women, and your doctors, couldn't look sillier to the rest of the world. I refer to your suggesting that the 50-year-old man who winks and flirts with young waitresses needs a psychiatrist. Undoubtedly, he is just another normal American male married to a typical American female who rations the physical side of love as though it represented the last irreplaceable gold in Fort Knox.

As a psychiatrist, I finally took my own advice and here I am in Rio de Janeiro, where women are content to let a man dominate, and be a man any way he sees fit. Any man who has lived here would never return to a nagging American female. Among Brazil's 80 millions, we have less than one-tenth of one per cent the number of inmates in mental hospitals as do our brothers to the north of us. Here is your chance to send "sick" people where they can really get help. I guarantee you that few will need psychiatric treatment once they get here.

C. V. H., M. D.
DEAR DR. C. V. H.: Assuming your figures regarding the number of inmates in mental hospitals are correct, they are meaningless because you do not have anywhere near the number of psychiatrists or the facilities for the mentally ill (proportionately) as do your brothers to the north of you. Perhaps, due to this fact, you have developed a greater tolerance for mental illness than we have, and are better able to live with it. But if you are suggesting that mental illness can be cured by substituting the mattress for the couch, it isn't necessary to go to Brazil for the treatment.

HIGHEST CIVIL HONOR

25 Men, 5 Women Named Freedom Medal Winners

WASHINGTON (AP)—Twenty-five men and five women prominent in public affairs, business, science, education, journalism and the arts were announced Friday as 1964 winners of the Medal of Freedom, highest civil honor the President can bestow.

In announcing the recipients' names, President Johnson said: "Collectively, they have made man's world safe, his physical body more durable, his mind broader, his leisure more delightful, his standard of living higher and his dignity important."

"They are creators; we are the beneficiaries."

Those receiving the medal range in age from 37 to 86.

Created in 1945 to reward civilian accomplishments in war, the award's scope was broadened in 1952 to include distinguished civilian contributions to the national security. In February of 1963 the late President John F. Kennedy reorganized the program to make it an annual recognition by the White House of persons who have contributed significantly to the quality of American life.

Under the new system, Kennedy last July 4 named 31 to receive the medal but the actual award was not made until December after Johnson had succeeded the slain president.

The announcement Friday did not give a date for this year's presentation.

Legislature Enters Final Week Monday

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The legislature enters the final week of its session Monday with the House ready to act on the code of ethics.

Both houses have passed bills to make the state more attractive for industrial expansion, the way McKeithen asked.

This code of ethics, designed to prevent the use of public office for private gain, represents the finishing touch in his effort to paint a brighter political image.

All the fireworks won't end during this holiday weekend, for critics of the code—shy on votes—hope to touch off a noisy display when the House debates the issue for a final legislative decision.

The first stipulates that constitutes unethical conduct for elected state officials and state employees, the second authorizes the state to set up the program, if approved at the polls in November.

The legislative act requires only a 53-vote majority in the 105-member House, while the constitutional proposal a two-thirds majority of 70 votes.

Foes failed Thursday to send the legislative act back to committee for a study of possible flaws.

McKeithen warned that opponents for his pet project—a top campaign pledge—would be considered unfriendly to his administration.

The weight of the administrative pressure is heavy. In addition, many lawmakers campaigned with a promise to adopt a code of ethics, thus a defeat appears unlikely.

The Senate will make a final decision on the controversial workman's compensation legislation, which McKeithen has described as a hornet's nest because of bitter labor-management conflict.

An industry backed bill faltered in the House after labor-backed amendments were adopted. A labor-favored House bill, awaiting action in the Senate, will provide the final test.

States rights Democrats also are heading toward a final decision on their attempts to give Alabama Gov. George Wallace a presidential primary in Louisiana. This would give Wallace a chance to take the state's Democratic label from President Johnson.

Helen A. Keller, 84, left blind, deaf and speechless by an illness when she was 19 months old, Miss Keller overcame these handicaps and became a leading figure in worldwide efforts to assist the blind. She lives in Westport, Conn.

THANKS TO HOUSEWIFE

110 Handicapped Tour World's Fair

NEW YORK (AP)—A housewife's dream of using trading stamps to finance an unforgettable trip for 110 physically handicapped persons came true Friday at the World's Fair.

Assisted by soldiers and relatives, the group toured the fair as the climax to a week-long trip to New York.

"It's been a wonderful trip," said Sue Lawrence, 15, of Indianapolis, who has a head injury. "She has been a real mother to us."

The woman is Dorothy Axson, 52, of Indianapolis, who thought of the trading stamp idea last December while addressing Christmas cards.

"I wanted to give a group of handicapped persons an experience they would never forget," explained Mrs. Axson.

She asked friends to send her trading stamps for the New York and World's Fair trip. The friends told others and the idea mushroomed.

Stamps began pouring into her house, filling up most of the dining room and then overflowing into the basement.

After making arrangements with the stamp company to convert them into cash, she bundled up the stamps and took them in for counting. A two-day check showed she had more than three million, worth about $5,000.

It was still $2,000 short of her $7,000 goal, but she solicited friends and raised the remainder in cash.

Last Monday, the 110 afflicted persons arrived in New York on three special planes that brought them from airports at Dayton, Ohio; Chicago and Indianapolis.

The group, ranging in age from 11 to 67, came from their homes in South Dakota, North Carolina, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, and assembled at three airports for the flight to New York.

A detachment of 1st Army soldiers, who had pledged assistance, met them at Kennedy Airport here and helped them into cars and buses.

"This is really wonderful," said "Arlene Maday, 22, of Chicago, who has a spinal ailment. "I never thought I would ever get to the World's Fair or New York."

Hilda Byrne, a polio victim from Evanston, Ill., was pushed in a wheelchair. "People in New York are so wonderful," she said. "I'm having a marvelous time."

Mrs. Axson long has been interested in the physically handicapped. Her husband, Herzie, suffered a crushed spine in the World War II invasion of Salerno.

Traffic dominated the brief session of West Monroe Municipal Court Friday presided over by Judge John McCormick.

Fined for speeding were Charles Jones, 23, Rayville, $10; Eddie W. Harvey, 27, 6207 Border Lane, Shreveport, $10; Gary E. Tolbert, 19, 207 Hood St., $10; Mickel Pardo, 21, 117 Spine Dr., $10; and Richard H. Emery, 21, 105 Whellis St., $15.

Southern States Get Ultimatum From Educators

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The National Education Association has given its all-white affiliates in 11 Southern states a two-year deadline to get integration with Negro affiliates under way.

By an overwhelming vote, the NEA Representative Assembly Friday adopted the strongest integration resolution in its 107-year history.

The debate, which many observers believed might last all day, took just an hour and eight minutes.

The resolution says that by July 1, 1966, all NEA affiliates must remove racially restrictive clauses from their constitutions and by-laws, and present a plan for complete integration.

A photograph of Gromyko at the ship's wheel on a previous visit here was shown to Khrushchev.

He turned to Gromyko and said: "You're a fine one. Are you trying to take over the wheel from me?"

Last week in Stockholm, as the Russians were entertained by Swedish folk music, Khrushchev got a seemingly uncomfortable Gromyko to dance.

Khrushchev had joined a circle of costumed dancers when he noticed Gromyko sitting on the sidelines.

"Dava! Gromyko," called Nikita, using a Russian expression meaning something like, "Get with it." Gromyko forced a smile and joined the dancers.

Earlier Friday, during an inspection of the raft used by explorer Thor Heyerdahl in the Kon-Tiki expedition across the Pacific, Khrushchev offered to serve as cook on the next expedition.

"I must have that offer in writing," said Heyerdahl, explaining he hadn't planned another raft expedition, but in light of Khrushchev's offer, he would.

Khrushchev said, "I am willing to sail with you on the raft, but I warn you that I am not a good cook."

Johnson Signs Bill For Study Of Food Prices

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson signed into law Friday, legislation to set up a study of food marketing, including the spread between what farmers receive and what consumers pay.

Simultaneously with the signing of the bill Johnson picked Judge Marvin Jones to serve as chairman of the study commission.

Jones recently retired as chief judge of the U.S. Court of Claims.

He served in Congress from Texas from 1917 to 1941 and was chairman of the House Agriculture Committee for 10 years. He served also as war food administrator during World War II.

He became a judge of the U.S. Court of Claims upon his retirement from Congress.

TO TEST LAW?

3 Yankee Congressmen Arrive In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Three congressmen arrived in Mississippi Friday to get a first-hand look at the volunteer students civil rights activities and immediately sparked reports they would test the public accommodations of the new civil rights law.

Reps. William F. Ryan of New York, and Augustus Hawkins and Philip Burton of Calif., all Democrats, said, however, they were in the state to talk with constituent students.

Rep. Ryan represents the district which includes the home of Andrew Goodman, one of three missing civil rights workers.

Goodman and two other workers have been the object of a federal, state and local search since their burned out car was found near Philadelphia, Miss.

The congressmen huddled with Council of Federated Organization leaders at the Jackson airport and then moved to Greenwood.

They were to look at the new national headquarters of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee.

Prior to their arrival, Gov. Paul Johnson appealed for Mississippians to avoid any incidents.

"I hope that all Mississippians will be alert to see to it that these congressmen do not create an incident, which will inure to their benefit and to their rejection," Johnson said.

"These congressmen have many problems requiring solutions in their home states," the governor said. "They could best spend their time solving their own problems rather than by creating problems for others in other states."

The speculation that they would test the segregated hotel system here arose when it was learned one of the congressmen, Hawkins, was a Negro.

A COFO spokesman said the lawmakers had no planned itinerary but they would remain through Sunday.

The trio did not attempt to meet with state leaders in Jackson, but merely paused before going to Greenwood. A COFO spokesman said they wanted to get a first-hand report on the civil rights activities in the state.

When the congressmen arrived in Jackson, they said the fact they arrived one day after passage of the civil rights bill was "purely coincidental."

Reds, Vatican Seek Accord On Relations

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Hungary and the Vatican are reported to have made progress toward an agreement on church-state relations and a solution to the case of Jozsef Cardinal Mindszenty to end his exile in the U.S. legation in Budapest.

Reliable sources said Friday that negotiations carried on for two years have reached a stage where settlement of key issues involving the future status of the Roman Catholic Church in this Communist country appears to be in sight.

The government of the premier and party chief, Janos Kadar, eager to improve its standing in the West, was said to have shown some readiness to make concessions.

The talks, carried on in Rome by Hungarian officials and Vatican experts on Eastern European affairs, were said to have produced an understanding to settle key issues—such as the nomination of new bishops for vacant sees, freedom of religious education, and the question of a successor for the cardinal.

Once these problems are settled, both sides see little difficulty in working out an accord on the cardinal's personal future—probably a transfer to the Vatican where he would be given a seat on the Curia, thereby relieving him of his formal function as Hungarian primate.

The sources said Cardinal Mindszenty's departure from Hungary nearly eight years after he sought asylum in the U.S. legation when the Soviet army crushed the 1956 revolution, was a relatively minor point.

Fatal Accident Ties Up Traffic For Three Hours

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special)—A Crossett man was killed Friday, and three others injured, in an accident at the Ouachita River bridge that tied up traffic for three hours.

The dead man was identified as Jasper Williams, driver of an automobile which was crushed and knocked 25 feet down a road bank by a trailer truck.

Injured were Curtis Penn of Crossett and Kenneth Burns, both of Crossett. All were identified as Negroes.

The driver of the truck, Glenn Hines, of Taylorsville, N.C., said the auto turned into the path of the truck on U.S. Hwy. 82 eight miles west of here.

Traffic was stalled for two miles on either side of the wreck before the vehicles could be removed.

Milk Producers To Get Price Hikes In July

BATON ROUGE (Special)—Commissioner of Agriculture Dave L. Pearce has reported that Louisiana milk producers will get a boost in class one milk prices during July under the two State Milk Orders.

Pearce explained that this is because the price indexes on which the milk prices are figured have risen.

"Mainly, it's because of the rise in Louisiana department store sales," the commissioner said. "This is one of the factors used in computing the price of milk to producers each month."

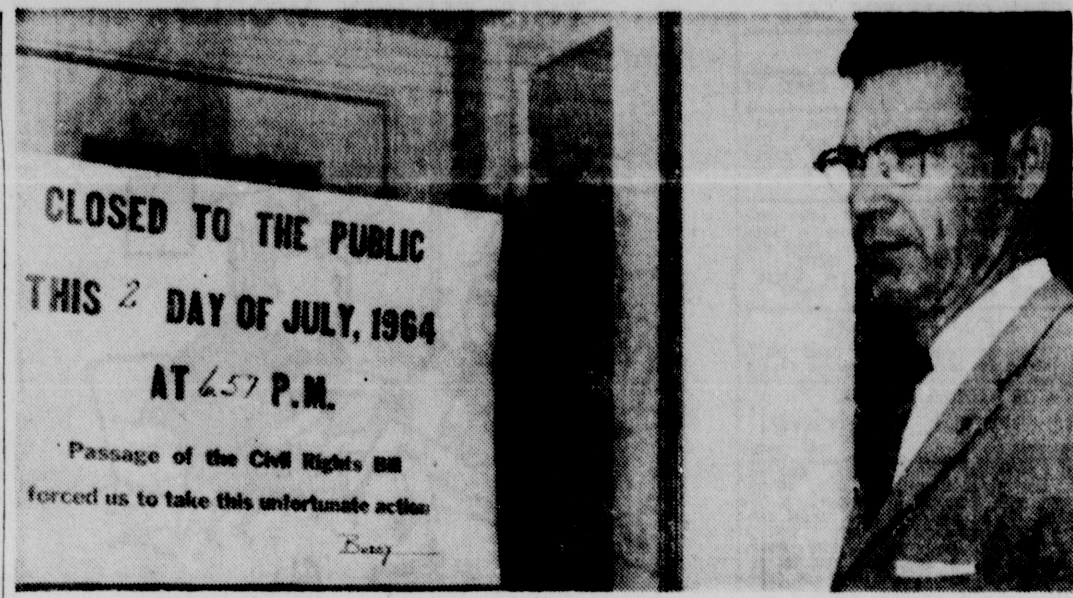

This is the first time since the State Milk Orders became effective in December, 1960 that the price producers receive for their class one milk has risen to $.67 per hundredweight for four per cent butterfat.

Dairymen receive pay for their milk after it is already processed and delivered to the consumer.

Class one milk products include homogenized milk, butter, milk, chocolate milk, skim milk, cream and others.

Most Markets Closed Friday

Most markets across the nation were closed Friday as they took the July 4th holiday a day early.

R. W. GLOVER stands beside the sign he put up on the entrance to his restaurant, "Buddy's," which he closed several minutes after Pres. Johnson signed the civil rights bill into law last night. Glover had been in the restaurant business for 27 years. Ironically, Glover had served Negroes for some time until the restaurant became a target of Negro sit-ins and picketing a year ago. ## WOULD 'COURT DISASTER'

Goldwater's Farm Policy Draws Fire From Scranton

FARGO, N.D. (UPI)—Gov. William W. Scranton, bidding for wheat belt delegate support at the Republican National Convention, said Friday that Sen. Barry M. Goldwater's anti-farm subsidy program "would court disaster in the nation's heartland."

The Pennsylvania governor told a crowd on the lawn of Civic Memorial Auditorium that "responsible Republicanism rejects a total free market solution to the farm problem."

While blasting his GOP opponent's "easy solution" to national farm problems, Scranton criticized President Johnson's Democratic administration for becoming "so mesmerized by commodity controls that they have forgotten their ultimate concern—the individual farmer."

Scranton courted the North Dakota delegation to the GOP convention in a closed door conference in this city amid the lush Red River Valley wheat and potato lands after bidding for South Dakota support during an overnight stay in Sioux Falls.

About 2,000 persons, many bearing Scranton placards, sat or stood in bright sunlight and applauded occasionally as the governor slapped at Goldwater and the Democrats and outlined what he called "a responsible Republican approach" to agricultural problems. There was a scattering of Goldwater signs but no heckling.

Scranton flew out of Fargo at 3:20 p.m. EDT and headed home to Harrisburg, Pa.

Milton Rue, former GOP national committeeman and a North Dakota delegate, said the governor made a "very impressive" presentation and added:

"I would predict that Scranton will not lose over two or three votes (from the North Dakota group) at the national convention."

A United Press International check previously had indicated that Scranton could count on eight votes and Goldwater five in the 14-member delegation, with one delegate undecided.

After Friday's huddle, a Goldwater delegate commented: "Just meeting with someone who doesn't necessarily make you change," Scranton called his reception by the delegates "splendid."

In what was billed as the major farm address of his whirlwind bid to win the GOP presidential nomination, Scranton said Goldwater has "urged prompt and final termination of the farm subsidy program."

Scranton said a free market cannot be expected to handle both current over-production of farm commodities and the backlog of 30 years of farm problems.

He charged that the Democrats in four years have failed to make good their promises to the farmers. He said expenditures of the Agriculture Department have risen nearly $2 billion and "the parity ratio has fallen to 75, the lowest in almost 25 years."

Scranton said the "basic elements for a responsible Republican farm program" should include:

—A simple, understandable and workable price support system.

—Promotion of high-level domestic consumption of farm products.

—A vigorous farm export program.

—A "sensible" land-water use program geared to the needs of local farm areas.

—Expansion of the rural development program.

I-20 Highway Work In Area Is Progressing

The I-20 highway program around Monroe is "well on the way toward completion," according to a Louisiana Highway Department construction status report dated July 1.

Quoting from the report, Fifth District Highway Board member James W. Moore of Monroe said the Stella Street interchange in West Monroe is 79 per cent complete. It is a $4.8 million job.

Approaches to the interchange are 10 per cent complete.

In other areas, the $4.5 million section between Cataulpa and Texas Avenue in Monroe is 71 per cent finished. The $4.7 million section between Texas Avenue and Nutland Road and the Highway 165 bypass is 37 per cent done. On the interchange of I-20 and Highway 80 near Calhoun, 75 per cent is done.

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson has described as "wonderful and very hopeful" responses to pleas for cooperation in making the civil rights act work.

Press secretary George E. Reedy said Friday that Johnson had received responses from community leaders, businessmen, officials and labor leaders from all parts of the country, including the Deep South.

Reedy said "wonderful and very hopeful" were Johnson's words of reaction.

He also announced that Johnson has picked Arthur H. Dean, a prominent New York lawyer, to head a National Citizens' Committee for Community Relations.

This committee will work with LeRoy Collins, former governor of Florida, who has been selected as director.

Collins and the advisory committee will work with communities and seek to mediate and conciliate problems arising under the civil rights law.

Dean has accepted the post of chairman of the advisory group Reedy said.

Dean, a senior partner of the law firm of Sullivan Cromwell, has served in various government capacities in the past. One of his jobs was that of chairman of the U.S. delegation to the Geneva disarmament talks which he held from 1961 until late December 1962.

Reedy said a large number of distinguished citizens in all parts of the country are being contacted to see whether they are willing to serve with Dean on the committee.

He said the President is aware that there will be many problems which will require patience and understanding in bringing about total compliance.

Reedy reported that Johnson talked with various government officials in Washington, including Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to get up to the minute reports on how prearranged plans for putting the law into force have been going.

Johnson also talked with Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr. of Mississippi.

Reedy did not go into detail as to the conversation with the governor other than to say it involved both the civil rights law and the three civil rights workers who have been missing in Mississippi for almost two weeks.

Johnson is determined, Reedy said, to use whatever forces are necessary in the search for the three missing.
